Globat.com[®] Launches 1-Click Transfer[™] at HostingCon

Web hosting provider Globat.com launches private beta of their patent-pending 1-Click Transfer

LOS ANGELES, CA – July 17, 2006 – Los Angeles-based Globat.com, the world-leader in Performance Web Hosting(tm), today announced that it will be launching a private beta of their ground-breaking 1-Click Transfer service. 1-Click Transfer is the easiest and quickest way for users to transfer entire Web sites from their old Web hosting providers to Globat.com.

1-Click Transfer allows users to seamlessly transfer complete databases, scripts, images, files and more with confidence and security. Built for Web 2.0 and within an AJAX interface, 1-Click Transfer moves hundreds of megabytes in less than 2 minutes and does not require any software to be downloaded.

"1-Click Transfer solves a long-standing problem faced by many Web site owners and will revolutionize the Web hosting industry," said Ben R. Neumann, President and CEO of Globat.com. "In the past, the process of moving a Web site from one host to another has been an error-prone and laborious process. To avoid the hassle, many Web site owners have reluctantly stayed with hosting providers who are unreliable, unstable, or overpriced. With 1-Click Transfer, we give customers the freedom to move their Web site and experience better service, unbeatable prices, and the latest innovations available at Globat.com!"

The private demonstrations of 1-Click Transfer will be held at HostingCon, an annual gathering of the hosting industry leaders, from July 17 – 19, 2006, at the Mirage Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas, Nevada. Attendees of the convention can visit Globat.com at Exhibitor Booth 125 or may contact us at prdept@globat.com for more information and access to the private beta.

Information about Globat.com and the company's services and Web hosting packages, which start at only $6.95, is available at their Web site (<http://www.globat.com>) or by calling 877-2-GLOBAT.
