

For Immediate Release

Web Hosting Provider Globat.com Sponsors Denver Couple's Summit of Mt. Kilimanjaro

Couple climbs highest point in Africa, plants Globat.com flag

LOS ANGELES, CA – August 14, 2006 - Los Angeles-based Globat.com[®], the world-leader in Performance Web Hosting[®], today announced its sponsorship of an expedition to Mount Kilimanjaro in Tanzania, Africa, by a young couple from Denver, Colorado. Jonathan Kraft and Carrie Roll decided to make the journey after hearing raves from a friend who had climbed the mountain in 2004.

The couple recalls, "Her experience was so inspiring that she decided to return to Kilimanjaro in 2006, this time as a trip organizer. She asked us if we wanted to join her on her 2006 Kilimanjaro expedition. So, we thought, 'What the heck! Let's do it!'"

After months of training, Jonathan and Carrie left Denver on June 8th and started a trip of a lifetime that took them through Washington D.C., New York City, New Jersey and Amsterdam before arriving in Tanzania on June 23rd. After some final preparations, Jonathan and Carrie reached the top of the 19,340-foot mountain, the tallest point in Africa, on July 1st, and celebrated Globat.com's sponsorship of the trek by planting the company's flag at the top. Jonathan also took the opportunity to climb a different type of mountain by proposing to Carrie, who happily accepted.

The couple is now back home in Denver, Colorado and are sorting through the numerous pictures and videos they took during their journey, with their favorites already posted on DefyingGravity.com.

"Talk about defying gravity! Jonathan and Carrie have accomplished something that most people will never do. Globat.com is very proud to have been a part of this monumental event," says Ben R. Neumann, President and CEO of Globat.com.

More information about this story can be found at the Defying Gravity Web site or by e-mailing prdept@globat.com. Information about Globat.com and the company's services and Web hosting package, which start at only $6.95, is available at their Web site (<http://www.globat.com>) or by calling 877-2-GLOBAT.

About Globat, LLC.

Globat, LLC (<http://www.globat.com>) is one of the most established Web hosting companies in the United States, offering affordable, quality Web hosting solutions to over 75,000 customers worldwide. Globat.com founder Ben R. Neumann, a two-time Entrepreneur of the Year[®] award nominee, was a pioneer of the budget Web hosting industry in 1994 when he founded Icom.com, which was sold to Interliant in 1998 and is today owned by Interland. The company is privately held and headquartered in Los Angeles, California.

About DefyingGravity.com

DefyingGravity.com (<http://www.DefyingGravity.com>) is a Web site dedicated to new, unique, outrageous, and sometimes slightly crazy marketing ideas and events. Globat.com founders Ben Neumann and Chris Ueland started this marketing trend and Web site in early 2006 as part of their vision to bring new and exciting marketing trends to life, while bridging the gap between modern and traditional media. Word-of-mouth or evangelist marketing was and is in the forefront of this new and exciting venture, which plans to sponsor at least one outrageous marketing event in every one of the fifty states.

###

All company names may be trademarks of the respective companies with which they are associated.
