

Quality, Affordable Linux Hosting with Globat.com

Looking for a Linux Web hosting provider? Globat.com is an industry leader in Linux Web hosting and provides affordable packages for personal or business Web hosting needs. You may have heard about other types of Web hosting besides Linux, such as Windows, Unix, or even Macintosh, however, here at Globat.com, our Web hosting servers run on Linux for its reliability and security. We're confident that our Linux platform will provide you with smooth and dependable Web hosting.

Our Linux hosting has the features and flexibility you won't find with other Web hosting providers and is perfect for all sites, large or small. All of our Web hosting plans come equipped with a variety of features, including CGI, Perl, and PHP support, plus MySQL databases, FTP access, and easy 1-Click installation of pre-packaged tools such as shopping carts and blogging software. Our Linux hosting servers have the advantage of allowing you to use the Unix command line to manipulate your files, but if you're unfamiliar with code, you can use our easy, user-friendly control panel, the Globat Command Console(tm), from any web browser. It does not matter if you have a simple, one-page static site or a multi-page, media-rich dynamic site; our Linux hosting will provide the service and resources you need at the best possible price.

Globat.com offers two feature-rich Linux hosting packages: the TeraByte Pro(tm) and the TeraByte Commerce(tm). Both packages feature all the tools and support needed, with the Pro plan offering 100 GB of disk space while the Commerce plan comes with 200 GB of disk space. With our Linux hosting plans, you also get unlimited e-mail accounts, 1000 GB of data transfer (1 TB) a month, site traffic stats, password-protected folders, and more. Our Linux hosting servers make it easy for us to provide you with the latest tools and software available, and for us to predict and diagnose any problems or security issue before they happen. In turn, you get the greatest Linux hosting available from the world-leader in Performance Web Hosting(tm), and since Linux is a free, open-source operating system, we are able to pass the savings onto our customers with the best prices on Linux hosting around!

So if you're looking for superior Web hosting, and more specifically, Linux hosting, you can't go wrong with Globat.com. Your Web hosting plan will be backed by years of experience, state-of-the-art hardware, unsurpassed customer service, and a genuine passion for offering top-notch Linux Web hosting at the best possible prices for both personal and business customers.